Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: the representative and the Examiner cooperated in putting proper language for claiming the nature of the driver installation file being copied on the target system. It has been communicated that since the invention is about one step action only, the main issue remains whether the combined teachings of Sybex and IntelWbta would render that step obvious at the time the invention was made. Examiner notes that the merits of one step action falling under the breadth of Windows installation in general, and Sybex in particular, and the current grounds of the 103 rejection would have to be resolved via proving that the claimed invention is more specific and intentionally focused than any remote installation capacity of Windows platforms or the likes (e.g. Sybex) can envisage. Overcoming obviousness rejection from the applicant side is key to the Office Action (i.e. coming to terms with Applicant) in determining patentability of said one limitation, absent any further contextual specificity in the claim, in spite of the representative's insistence on the fact that Sybex and IntelWBTA all together are not contemplating a re installing endeavor in the same context as claimed. Examiner cannot promise any clear way to provide hints as to help overcome the rejection unless a written amendment be submitted and based thereupon to find out via more analysis whether the Applicant is right when not claiming any further than than one step feature. .
